CATALOGUE 2026

TODAY, WE WEAVE A MEMORY

Thank you to all our customers who purchased from us throughout 2025. We hope it was a successful year for your business, and we look forward to strengthening our relationship in 2026.

For those discovering John Hanly & Co. for the first time, we extend a very warm welcome.

You'll notice our exciting new colour stories highlighted at the beginning of each category—an inspiring palette for the year ahead. To register, simply visit www.johnhanly.com and click on “TRADE WEBSITE” in the top-right corner.

Our trade website offers several advantages over the catalogue, including:

- Access to additional items not featured in the catalogue.
- Full visibility of product pricing.
- “Return to stock” dates for out-of-stock items.
- The ability to place orders and view your running total as you build your cart.
- A media gallery where you can download images for use on your own website.

We look forward to working with you in 2026 and wish you continued success.

Best wishes,
John Hanly – Managing Director

A woman with long brown hair is leaning against a rustic stone wall and a wooden door. She is wearing a long, patterned Irish wool scarf with a mix of blue, white, and red plaid and windowpane designs. The scarf is draped around her neck and hangs down her front. She is also wearing a grey blazer and dark trousers. The background consists of a rough stone wall on the left and a wooden door on the right.

History

1893 - Ballyartella, North Tipperary

Our story started back in 1893, when Denis Hanly and his son John set up a vertical woollen mill beside the Nenagh river, in a disused flour mill in Ballyartella, North Tipperary. Local farmers sold their fleeces to the mill, where wool was spun and carded and then woven into two main products of blankets and flannel fabric.

1938 - The Move to Electricity

The traditional water mill wheel was replaced by a new water turbine. The turbine was made by a company called Grant's in Belfast, Northern Ireland. The same water turbine is still working and produces electricity from the Nenagh river. We are proud to be able to say that all our electricity comes from renewable sources.

1939 - Hanly Family

John Hanly died and for a number of years the business was run by various members of the Hanly family, mainly Anthony and Peggy. These were years of World War II and it would have been a great struggle to keep a factory going in these times of raw material shortage.

1944 - Joseph Hanly joins the Company

Joseph Hanly, having completed his first year of Science in UCD, was called home at the age of 19 to work in the family business. He was helped during this time by his sister Peggy. Joseph would spend a total of 69 years working in Ballyartella Woollen Mills until he died on the 27th May 2013.

1952 - A Fire Destroyed Much of the Mill

In 1952 a fire destroyed much of the mill, reducing it from six to two storeys and destroying the adjoining family home. After that, the mill continued, but ceased its spinning and finishing, leaving just weaving as its core business.

1985 - 4th Generation

Brian Hanly, following in almost the same footsteps of his father Joseph, was asked to return home to join the company. Brian was 24 at the time and is still involved in the running of the company.

2021 - 5th Generation Hanly

John Hanly has now followed in the same footsteps of his father Brian and is the 5th generation Hanly to be involved in the running of the company.

2023 - Celebrating 130 years in Business

John Hanly & Co celebrates 130 years of Business.
